

“The Ol’ Switcheroo-whoop” Challenge

Objective:

This is a timed event. The goal of this challenge is to overcome the effects of randomly selecting a magazine that is filled with an unknown amount of live and/or dummy rounds. Being comfortable with the uncomfortable and the unknown. Before starting the challenge another individual (anyone other than the competitor) will set up 3 magazines as follows: 1 magazine with 6 live rounds, 1 magazine with 6 live rounds and 1 dummy round (fill magazine in that order, live rounds first, dummy round last), and 1 magazine with 3 live rounds, 1 dummy round, and then 3 live rounds (fill magazine in that order). Once those magazines are set up, the timekeeper or another individual (anyone other than the competitor) will hold the magazines upside down and at an angle towards themselves so the competitor cannot see the first round. The competitor will grab 1 magazine and quickly placing it in their magazine pouch/holder without looking at it. Once the competitor is staged and ready at the 30-yard line (PCC unloaded and grounded, muzzle facing down range), they will check with the timekeeper and make sure they are ready. Once the timekeeper is set, the competitor will say “standby...GO” and begin the drill (time starts on GO). The competitor will do 50 jumping jacks then retrieve their PCC from the ground, load their 1 magazine and engage the silhouette steel target (pink) with however many rounds are in that magazine, along with correcting any malfunctions that occur (if applicable). The time stops once the competitor gets a hit (ding) on their last target. Once the competitor is finished, the loadout of the 2 remaining magazines will be checked to ensure the competitor successfully competed the requirements of the magazine specific to them. To successfully pass this challenge, the competitor and the challenger(s) must complete the tasks in the allotted time frame.
